FORWARD

As a child, my Father instilled in me a desire to know [illegible] about my ancestors. He told me stories of his Grandparents, of their trek to Utah and about their life in Salt Lake Valley. Having spent many years in searching for my ancestors, I decided I would like to preserve for the descendants of my great-grandfather Elnathan Eldredge, some of the history he made. This book is a small attempt to put on paper some of his life and accomplishments.

I hope that the record of Elnathan and his descendants will someday help someone to find out about their ancestors.

The material for this book was gathered by personal contact with family members. From Ward and Census records of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, from Salt Lake County marriage records, obituary notices, and cemetery records. I also used vital records in other towns where people lived.

I appreciate the help given to me by my daughter Phillis Swenson, my sisters, Leah Eldredge and Martha E. Moulton and the many other [illegible] who took the time to respond to my letters and calls for information without their help I would not have been able to make this record available.

As you read this record may you learn to appreciate the hard work and great courage of our ancestors. And may you understand their many accomplishments.

CHAPTER ONE

ELDREDGE ANCESTORS

WILLIAM ELDRED

The History of the Eldredge family, or as it was first written, Eldred, in this country begins with William Eldred of Yarmouth, Barnstable, Mass. There is some evidence that William, Robert, Samuel, John and Nathaniel were brothers. They were all men of standing and substance and came from England about 163[illegible] to 1635. The relationship cannot at this time be proven because the English ancestry has not yet been found.

William married Anne, a daughter of William and Tamesin Lumpkin of Yarmouth. The Lumpkins came in 1637. He was a deputy of the London court and held many of the local offices. As the Yarmouth Records were destroyed by fire in the year 1674, the account of William and his children is brief. Anne was buried on Nov. 1, 1676.

William was born about 1627, probably in England. He died in Nov. 1[illegible], in Yarmouth.

The children of William and Anne Lumpkin Eldredge were:

1. Anne b. 16 Dec. 1648 at Yarmouth, Barnstable, Massachusetts.

[illegible] 1719 he moved from Yarmouth to Harwich, Massachusetts, and is listed "Jehosaphat of Harwich" on a deed from his nephew "Jehosaphat of Yarmouth." Most of the Eldredges of Yarmouth and Chatham are descended by Jehosaphat, and most of the prominent men of [illegible] trace to him. He was a Soldier in King Phillip's War, he was in the battle of the Narragansetts, December 19, 1675. He received a grant of land [illegible] William of England in Narragansett Township No. Seven, now Gorham, Maine. He served all [illegible] through the King Phillip Wars. His children were all born at Chatham.

He was born about 1658 at Yarmouth, Barnstable, Massachusetts. He settled on a portion of the old Nickerson or Sarah Covell farm at Chatham. His house stood on the west side of Crows pond near and south of the William Covell farm. His will, dated February 9, 1731 was proved November 29, 1731. He had a house and land at "Red River Neck", which was given to his son Nathaniel a neck of land at Chathamport called short neck; meadow at "Ragged Neck"; meadow at Matchapossett; and woodland near the Red River. His dwelling house and land near Covells was given to his sons Ebenezer and Barnabus. His wife was Elizabeth, the daughter of Nathaniel and Sarah Nickerson Covell, as Joseph Covell, son of Joseph mentions Barnabus Eldredge son of Jehosaphat as being his cousin (Smith's History of Chatham, p. 221.) She was living as late as 1751.

Ebenezer Eldredge, son of Jehosaphat and Elizabeth Covell Eldredge, was born about 1707 at Chatham, Massachusetts and died [illegible] February 26, 17[illegible], [illegible] ninety years. He married about 1742 to Deliverance Nickerson, daughter of William and Sarah Covell Nickerson. Ebenezer inherited land from his father at Chatham and spent his life there. The children were all born and recorded at Chatham.

Deliverance Nickerson was born 11 June 1727 at Chatham, Mass. and died 27 April 1808 at the age of eighty-one years. Tradition in the family is that Ebenezer first saw Deliverance when she was a babe at her mother's breast, and he a young swain of twenty years. He vowed to wait for her to grow up to womanhood to make her his bride. This he did, and they were married when she was between fourteen and fifteen years of age. It is said they lived happily in spite of the disparity of their ages. Both Deliverance and Ebenezer are buried in the Old Methodist Cemetary at East Harwich.

They lived in the old "Covell House" in Chathamport where his father had lived. They lived in one half of the house, while his mother and sister lived in the other half. July 27, 1758 his sister conveyed to him a half interest in her part of her father's estate, reserving to herself half of the house. August 24, of the same year, his brother, Barnabus, conveyed his share of it to Ebenezer reserving half of the home for his sister. On the back of the transfer is a receipt dated May 12, 1759 signed by Ebenezer, apparently for the reserved portion of his sister's half of the house calling it the "Covell House". It was probably about this time that she married Obed Hathway and took her mother with her to Dartmouth.

He seems to have been a miller as well as a farmer and fisherman. The "Old Mill" stood not far from his farm just north of the residence of the late Rufus Smith. After the death of Ebenezer, Son Jonathan, evidently moved back to the old place, as an old bill from him to Elnathan, who settled his father's estate, shows that his mother lived with him from November 25, 1793 to May 25 1803. On the back is a notation that she went to Westport after this and died there. On July 9, 1804 her son Ebenezer of Buckston, Maine and her daughter Patty Mecoy, of Barrington, N.S. Released to Elnathan their share of their father's estate, he paying them $60.00 and agreeing to look after their mother Deliverance. April 1, 1806 Jonathan bought at auction the share of the estate belonging to his mother for $1000.00. This was the old Covell House built about 1765 by Ebenezer's grandfather, Nathaniel Covell.

History of Chatham by Smith

Elnathan Eldredge, the son of Ebenezer Eldredge and Deliverance Mayo, was born March 7, 1707 at Chatham, Massachusetts; died December 21, 1807 at Harwich, Massachusetts. He married Oct 31, 1771 at Chatham to Dorothy Freeman of Harwich; She died November 9, 1825. Both were buried in the Methodist Cemetary at East Harwich, Massachusetts.

He lived near the home of his father in law, Thomas Freeman in East Harwich, Massachusetts, and the house he built is still standing. He bought the land and built the house in 1774. His account book shows he was a shoemaker, at least part of the time, until 1800. He also manufactured cloth, was a weaver, as well as a mariner by spells. In a deed of 1777 he is called a sea-faring man. His account book shows he made shoes for Micah Hall, the last surviving full-blooded Indian in these parts as late as 1790. Micah repaid him by hoeing corn and other labor on the farm.

In 1801, he bought land on the west side of Pleasant Bay, where he built a mill, which was completed in 1802; and from this time on, he was a miller. He was called "Elnathan the Miller". He died in the mill, which he ran until the last. He acquired much real estate before his death, and was a prominent man and active in the community where he lived. He was a great Bible student and was well known for ability and willingness to give instruction and information concerning the scriptures, in which he was well versed. He did not belong to any sect or religious society. His house was always open to receive and entertain any and all ministers of any and all denominations and he had discussions with ministers in relation to the teachings of Christ in accordance with the New Testament, he stating publicly that "The gospel was not taught this time as the gospel was taught by the Savior and his apostles."

Elnathan Eldredge, a grandson, said that his grandfather was known for his discussions with all ministers, he boldly making the assertion that the Gospel as taught by Christ and his Apostles was not upon the earth; and that he should not live to hear it. But, said he, placing his hand upon the shoulder of his Grandson, who was beside him, "This boy will live to see the gospel preached and will believe the same."

His wife, Dorothy Freeman, was a direct descendant of William Brewster, the leader of the Pilgrims on the Mayflower, who landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620 and a descendant of Governor Thomas Prence, governor of Plymouth Colony, and of Major John Freeman, the renouned Indian fighter during the King Phillip Wars. She was the daughter of Thomas Freeman, who was born April 24, 1731, and who died after 1791. He was a soldier of the American Revolution. Her

ELNATHAN ELDREDGE - PIONEER

History

Elnathan Eldredge was born in Harwich, Barnstable, Massachusetts on 19 June 1811. He was the son of Elnathan Eldredge and Jane Wixom. He was a seafaring man during his early manhood. He became captain of a vessel and sailed to many parts of the world. He was known as Captain Elnathan Eldredge.

On Nov. 30, 1834 he married Cynthia Wixon, daughter of Barnabas Wixon and Jerusha Chase. She was born 4 May 1813 at Dennis, Barnstable, Mass. and died before they had been married a year of childbirth, on 29 Oct. 1835. He then married in 1836 Mary Ann Merchant of Dennis, Barnstable, Mass. She died 15 May 1837 at the age of 23 in East Harwich, Barnstable, Mass.

On Sept. 16, 1839 at Harwich, Massachusetts, he was married to Mrs. Ruth Baker Underwood, widow of Joseph Underwood. She was born 10 March 1810 at Harwich, Barnstable, Mass. The daughter of Joseph Baker and Ann Phillips. Ruth had married 3 Jan. 1833 Joseph Underwood, who was a sea captain and traded in foreign countries. On one voyage his vessel was wrecked and he and all on board were lost at sea. They had one daughter named Adelaide Underwood.

Elnathan and Ruth made their home in Dennis, Barnstable, Mass., where three sons were born to them. Elnathan Eldredge born 12 Sept. 1841; Joseph Underwood Eldredge born 10 Oct. 1843; and Frederick Baker Eldredge born 11 Dec. 1845.

Elnathan Eldredge and his wife became acquainted with the Gospel in their area and on 22 Mar 1846 he was baptized a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. A few days later on 29 Mar. 1846 Ruth was also baptized. The following year they sold their property and accompanied by his Uncle Isaac Eldredge and wife Sarra Wixon and their cousin John Wixom, they left to join the saints in the west.

Ruth's daughter Adelaide had to remain behind because Nathaniel Underwood, a brother of Joseph obtained a court order to have himself appointed legal guardian of Ruth's child. She was 12 years old at the time. Jonathan and Ruth tried to get her back. They made arrangements with Samuel Brannon who was sailing the ship Brooklyn from Boston to San Francisco, California to bring her, but could never see her daughter again.

[illegible] Eldredge group went by rail to Pittsburg, then by the Canal and railroad to Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. There they took a boat down the Ohio River and the Mississippi River to the mouth of the Missouri River where they took another steamboat up the Missouri to Winter Quarters, the outfitting point for Utah.

Ruth, the mother, while on board ship kept on deck as much as possible to avoid the close uncomfortable cabin. While on the deck with her three children, she had two of them tied to her body with a rope and held the baby on her lap to keep them under control. The captain of the boat asked her where she was going. She answered "To the Rocky Mountains". He responded, "You are a brave woman, and I believe you will be successful and reach your destination. Uncle Isaiah Eldredge fell overboard from the boat and was drowned in the Ohio River. His widow Sabra continued on with the rest of the group to Utah.

In due time the voyagers reached Winter Quarters and preparations were made for the long overland journey of a thousand miles with ox teams and wagons. Being a Sea Captain did not know much about oxen and wagons, but he got advice from friends and purchased oxen and two wagons. Each wagon had two yoke of oxen and one yoke of cows. One wagon he loaded with food supplies and the other wagon was used for the family and their belongings. There were five hundred wagons in the train, placed in companies of fifty wagons each. The companies kept far enough apart to prevent the cattle from getting mixed, and close enough together to be able to aid one another in case of attack by Indians. Buffalo were visable at all times; occassionally the train would call a halt and assemble in close order to let the herd of buffalo pass, as they grew in herds of hundreds.

On the second or third day out on the journey, the oldest boy said to his father, "Father, that yoke of oxen in the lead is not our oxen." and he was right. They were not. Finally as the train of wagons moved on, instead of the boy's yoke following the wagon ahead, the oxen suddenly turned and ran off to the left and broke the wagon tongue. At that moment a man from another company came up and said, "Brother Eldredge, you have got a pair of my oxen, and your's on the head of your team." "Thank the Lord," said Mr. Eldredge. "But those oxen are not mine." It was very amusing. He did not seem to care about the broken wagon tongue, but was highly pleased to learn that the unruly oxen were not his property. He said he did not know much about oxen, but knew all about handling a whip. He proceeded to place a piece of wood beside the broken piece in the wagon tongue, lashed it there with ropes, and the repair lasted to the end of the journey. His oxen were found and rounded up by the boy, who knew more about oxen than his father.

They reached the valley of Salt Lake on the 26 of Sept. 1847. The pioneers lost no time in making preparations for the approaching winter. Each family built a one room house against each other forming an enclosure. This was the first fort to protect the people from attack by Indians. The rooms or houses were made of logs, stones, mud or whatever else they could find to make dwellings. The roofs were made of poles placed side by side, then willows, brush and grass finished with a covering of earth. Each room was occupied by a family. When it rained the water would come through and when the rain stopped they would go outside and dry themselves as best they could.

An investigation was soon made to ascertain the amount of provisions in the settlement, it was discovered that the people would run short unless strict regulations were established and rations dealt out sparingly. A commissary was established and all provisions were taken charge of and rations issued. Mr. Eldredge was one of the moving spirits to secure adoption of this plan, although he had in his possession at the time, one wagon load of food stuffs. He gave up all his supplies and drew his own scant ration like all the rest. This was done that all would be provided for until crops could be raised, and none would suffer want, in the meantime.

The weather was mild that winter, and in the spring much land was prepared for planting. A large acreage was planted to wheat, corn and vegetables. The crops came on, looking fine and promising, and the people eagerly looked forward to a harvest to relieve them from a shortage of food. Roots, thistles, and everything that could be made into food was used to tide them over until the growing crops had time to mature. Everybody was hopeful, but suddenly their hopes were blasted. From the mountain districts at the east, came hordes of large black crickets. The ground was literally covered with them. They ate everything green in their path. They headed for the growing wheat and corn and soon swarmed over the fields, devouring everything in their path. Men, women, and children turned out to fight the terrible pests, but all to naught. Nothing could stop their march and hopes of a harvest vanished. All hope was gone, when suddenly, as if by magic, there appeared in the sky myriads of beautiful seagulls, and their peculiar cries sounded like music to the ears. Soon the sky was darkened by the clouds of birds. Some failed to believe that a new evil had come, but they soon discovered that the new visitors were on a friendly mission. Down they came by the millions and began devouring the crickets. They filled their crops or pouches with crickets, and when filled they would vomit the crushed liquid mass on the ground, then return to the living crickets again, filling themselves and disgorging as before, repeating the process until all the crickets were destroyed. All this took place in the presence of the astonished pioneers. The crickets were destroyed and a large part of the crops were saved. Truly, a wonderful miracle had taken place before the eyes of the people. What rejoicing! Even the children shouted with joy and gladness. No wonder a grateful people enacted a state law making it a crime for anyone to destroy a sea gull! All look upon the birds with kindness and affection.

That summer while the Eldredges were still living in the fort their fourth son, Joshua Eldredge was born 11 July 1848.

The pioneers had a great harvest festival on the first crops raised in Utah. They assembled together and enjoyed a real feast rejoicing and praising God for the great blessings they had received.

That year, the people scattered and commenced to build homes in different parts of the valley, and soon branched into adjoining valleys. Mr. Eldredge remained in the town of Salt Lake and assisted in its development and progress. He held many offices in course of time. He was assistant supervisor in Salt Lake City, a member of the city council for sixteen years.

He was in the great battle of Battle Creek fought with the Ute Indians near Utah Lake, which was frozen over. There were many Indians pursued across the frozen lake and many squaws and children were captured. They were taken to Salt Lake and cared for by the citizens. The squaws made their escape at the first opportunity; but the smaller children stayed with different families. One female child Mary lived in the Eldredge home as a daughter until Sept 1870 when she died at the age of 26 years. She is buried in the family burial lot in the Salt Lake City Cemetary.

Two more children were born to Elnathan and Ruth in Salt Lake City, Utah. Willie Nelson born 21 Dec. 1850, he died 6 May 1851. A girl Cynthia [illegible] 18 Nov 1852. She was a delightful addition to the family of boys.

Elnathan Eldredge engaged in farming which, although having no previous experience, he soon learned. His farm was several miles south of the city, and like others, he traveled to and from town to the farm. One early morning as he and his boys were on the way to the farm, they saw several head of cattle in a field of wheat. They had broken down the fence and were trampling down and destroying the tall growing wheat. Elnathan stopped the team and told his boys Elnathan married as his fourth wife, Ann Maria Peck, the daughter of Matthew Gray Otis Peck and Margaret Angier, on 25 April 1856 in Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah. She was born 16 Aug. 1839 in Taunton, Bristol, Massachusetts.

Ann Maria Peck became a member of the church 17 Aug. 1847 in Massachusetts. She came to Utah with her family in the John Tidwell company leaving Kanesville, Iowa in June 1852 and arriving in the Salt Lake Valley, Sept. 15, 1852. This company consisted of 340 people with 32 wagons, so the thirteen year old Ann Maria must have walked nearly all the way.

Elnathan and Ann Maria had five children in Salt Lake City; Loring b. 20 Aug. 1857; George Albert b. 4 June 1860; Harrison b. 21 Dec. 1863 and died in 1864; Margaret Jane b. 19 Oct. 1865; and Annie Louisa b. 17 Feb. 1869. Then in 1869 they moved to Rich County to homestead in the little town of Meadowville, where Edith Viola was born 15 Mar. 1872. Her children were raised in this beautiful valley near Bear Lake.

Elnathan Eldredge died on the 31st of October 1871 in Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah, at the age of 61. He had visited his family in Laketown and caught pneumonia going back to Salt Lake.

Elnathan Eldredge was a true pioneer, a sturdy character and helped to subdue the great desert and build a mighty commonwealth. He played an active part in the accomplishment of this tremendous task. He possessed strength of character, the power of endurance and the spirit of industry to do worthwhile things. He was ever resolute and ready to overcome any and all obstacles that came before him. Faithful and true he always relied on God for guidance in all his undertakings.

CHAPTER THREE

ELNATHAN ELDREDGE - OLDEST SON

HISTORY

Elnathan Eldredge, a Mormon pioneer of 1847, was the eldest son of Elnathan and Ruth Baker Eldredge. He was born 12 Sept. 1841 at Dennis, Barnstable, Mass. His father was a sea-faring man and his mother had been a school teacher in Harwich, Massachusetts.

These excerpts have been taken from his autobiography:

"My parents joined the Latter-day Saint Church in the spring of 1846. The Elders frequently visited and had every opportunity to preach the gospel in Cape Cod, Massachusetts. My parents must have been well satisfied with the teachings of the Elders or they never would have made the journey.

"My parents were comparatively young people at that time (37 years old). What a sacrifice they were making leaving their old home and dear ones --fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters -- all that was near and dear to them, going to an unknown land, associating with strangers though of the same faith, their prophet martyred, the Saints expelled from Nauvoo, destitute and forsaken. Yet all these adverse conditions they ventured and left all for conscience sake.

"My parents in company with John Wixom, my father's cousin and a few others who had joined the church made their way by horse team to Boston, Mass. 80 miles distant. Then by the Boston, New Haven and New York Railroad to New York City. Thence by canal most of the way to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, then by steamboat on the Ohio River to where it joins the Mississippi, then up the Mississippi to St. Louis and then up the Missouri River to Florence, just north of Omaha as it now stands.

So after five weeks of having an indirect route, the company arrived at Winter Quarters. There they made preparations for the great western journey.

My father and his cousin bought their outfit for the journey and provisions of all kinds for two or three years, for they said there was no calling when any necessity of life could be obtained after leaving those parts. They bought four yokes of oxen and two cows. My father yoked the two cows and put them between the two yokes of oxen. The cows gave milk during the journey.

"I cannot at this time give the exact date of starting the journey westward, [illegible] every kind was arranged in ordinary manner.

"During the journey on the plain, or Indians [illegible] These natives had to be watched very closely [illegible] could get their hands on, otherwise they [illegible] Great herds of buffalo intercepted at times. They would [illegible] in the train. The beasts were indifferent to anything [illegible]

"We arrived in the valley of Salt Lake, Sept. [illegible] was a mild one. The cattle and the other animals did well [illegible] as there was plenty. Some 900 acres were plowed during the [illegible] wheat was planted during the winter. As springtime of 1848 approached, food [illegible] getting short. People lived on rations, but as the crops were starting up well [illegible] promising, the people felt encouraged. But, alas, the crickets in untold [illegible] appeared and were devouring the crops. The people were greatly [illegible] outcome. Father said to mother 'If the Lord doesn't come to our aid, we will [illegible] But the Lord did interpose by his divine power and the gulls came by the [illegible] thousands and devoured and destroyed the crickets to [illegible] the harvest of 1848."

Elnathan was educated in the common schools of Salt Lake City. [illegible] new communities, those schools were crude. The mother who was well [illegible] helped instruct her children at home. Elnathan helped his father on [illegible] and he developed a strong healthy body. In 1851 he drove [illegible] yokes from Salt Lake City to the Missouri River at Winter Quarters [illegible] for the purpose of taking converts to Utah.

In 1863 he went on a mission to England for the Mormon Church [illegible] there three years, returning to New York in 1866. He was then appointed [illegible] charge of the Mormon emigrants from New York to the Missouri River [illegible] to be met by ox team to take them to Utah. Then he returned to Salt Lake City by mule team.

He taught school in Coalville, Utah about two years, then moved to Salt Lake at a new settlement at Meadowville, Utah. He and his brother Joseph Joshua entered into a contract with the U.S. Government to carry [illegible] between Evanston, Wyoming and Paris, Idaho in 1869. In 1874 the [illegible] also engaged in raising, buying, and selling cattle. Elnathan moved to [illegible] house, Utah and engaged in farming in Salt Lake County. He was [illegible] the Bishopric of Sugarhouse Ward. He went on another mission to [illegible] he moved to Ogden, Utah and went into the musical and sewing machine business. Later he moved to Salt Lake City.

Elnathan was an active member of the Mormon Church [illegible]

[illegible] assist in promoting its interests.

On the 24 April 1863 he married Rebecca Knorr Derr. She was born 9 Sep. 1845 at Philadelphia, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He married (2) 28 Mar. 1870 at Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah, Malona Pratt, daughter of Parley Parker Pratt and Ann Agatha Walker. She was born 15 April 1850 in Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah. On Feb. 10 1879 he married (3) Mary Elizabeth Dunster, daughter of James Dunster and Mary Roberts Jones. She was born 10 Apr. 1856, in Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah.

Elnathan was a fine looking man - tall and dignified. He had high moral principles abd was respected by all who knew him. He was very clean and pain-staking in his clothes and proud of his appearance. It was said that when he was coming to Salt Lake with some cattle, he would get off the wagon a while before he entered the city, take off his dusty clothes and walk into the city with fresh clothes.

JOSEPH UNDERWOOD [illegible]

History

Joseph Underwood Eldredge was born 10 Oct. 1843 at [illegible] Massachusetts. He was the second son of Nathan and Ruth Eldredge.

Joseph wrote this in his autobiography:

"My father was a sea captain and sailed the Atlantic [illegible] years. My mother was a school teacher at Harwich, Massachusetts. In company with my older brother, Elnathan, and my younger brother, Frederick, I came with them from Massachusetts to the wilderness of Utah in 1847. I remember that at the end of the tiresome journey, my mother dropped on her knees and said "This is the place -- our journey is ended," and offered a prayer to God in gratitude that we had all been spared in the long hazardous journey.

My father took up a farm a few miles south of Salt Lake City. He soon learned to conduct a farm, and the other members of the family as most did at the time, lived in the town and went to and from the farm to raise food for man and beast. We boys often talked together of father's honest and generous principles. We had often seen his generosity and forbearance during the famine and grasshopper war when grain was scarce. We had seen him give to the needy.

"Our schools at the time were rather poor affairs. We boys were [illegible] in having a mother who could teach us the rudiments of education and who took pains to teach us and give us a good foundation.

"In 1862 I drove four yoke of oxen and wagon from Utah to the [illegible] River and return. I was 19 years of age and in company with a [illegible] wagons. That was to me a wonderful trip. On my return to Utah I engaged in freighting to the mining camps of Nevada, Idaho, and Montana. In [illegible] went to the head waters of the Missouri River. I freighted over that country when there were no white settlers there, except [illegible]. They were a wild and lawless class of desperate characters. Life was filled with adventure and excitement. It was the days of the [illegible] gold mining. Lawlessness ruled the country. The citizens there organized a vigilance committee to enforce order.

Joseph Eldredge [illegible] Oct. 1870 in Salt Lake City, Utah, the daughter of Orson Pratt and Mary Ann Terrill, [illegible] Washington, Utah. They lived in Salt Lake City.

"In 1877 I moved with my family to [illegible], Utah to assist Orson Eldredge and Joshua. There we took a contract from the United States Government to carry a tri-weekly mail from Evanston, Wyoming to Paris, Idaho going through the towns of Rich County, Utah. We also engaged in cattle and ranch business, [illegible] raising, buying and selling. We remained in Rich County and while there I was elected County Assessor and Collector of Taxes and served four years. There I took a contract to build a railroad grade for the Utah Line from Granger, Wyoming through the coal fields; also I operated a saw mill for making lumber. In 1886 I moved back to Salt Lake City, having disposed of my holdings in Rich County.

"I have held the offices of deputy sheriff, assessor, collector, and clerk of Salt Lake County; was appointed Clerk of Salt Lake City Courts, and resigned from that position after giving eight years to that office to give attention to my own private affairs."

Joseph Eldredge served on a mission to the Southern States with [illegible] during the troublesome times of 1883-84. He later served as an [illegible] mission for the Church.

He was proud of his ancestry. He was a descendant of William Bradford, Stephen Hopkins, William White, and Thomas Rogers of the Mayflower. He was also a descendant of four Revolutionary War heroes. He was a member of the Massachusetts Society of the Mayflower Descendants and of the Utah Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

He was an ardent genealogist and spent many hours and expense [illegible] of his ancestors. He corresponded with such noted genealogists as [illegible] Dickerson and Stella Freeman Peterson. In 1932 he was pictured [illegible] and Ruth Eldredge took such interest in his [illegible] the Jonathan Eldredge Family Tree which he was [illegible].

To the end of his life his intellect remained clear and he could recall the outstanding events of his life. His friend Benjamin L. Rich said of him on learning of his death, "He was a man of great moral integrity, honesty, indu-

[illegible], and [illegible]"

[illegible] Eldredge was born [illegible] and [illegible] to Dennis, Barnstable, Co., Massachusetts, on the 17th of [illegible], 1821. [illegible] Eldredge was a son to Joseph and Sally Nickerson Eldredge. [illegible] was a school teacher in Dennis, [illegible] her husband.

[illegible] Eldredge was descended from a colonial line of [illegible] in the early organization and development of the [illegible]. [illegible] active part. Through both his father's and mother's line he was a descendent of the brave Pilgrim Fathers who came in the Mayflower and [illegible] at Plymouth Rock in 1620, Elder William Brewster, Stephen Hopkins, William White, and Thomas Rogers being his direct ancestors. His own father and mother, like their courageous Pilgrim fathers, sought religious freedom. They also possessed a love of truth, a profound faith in God, that enabled them to make the greatest sacrifices and to pioneer the West.

It was in 1836, while the Eldredge family were residing in Dennis, Mass. that two Mormon missionaries introduced the Gospel to them. The father and mother listened and understood it's message. A while later they were baptized and confirmed members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Their hearts rejoiced at the new found faith and upon learning that the Saints were gathering at Winter Quarters on the Missouri River preparatory to the great migration westward, they decided to join them.

The parents with their three children, Elnathan, Joseph, and Frederick, left Massachusetts in the early part of 1847. Grandfather, who was a year and a half at the time, was carried in the arms of his mother a great part of the long dreary journey by river boat and then on the trail across the plains he was lovingly cared for by her.

They made the great trek westward in John Webster's ten, George D. Wallace's fifty, and Abraham Smoot's company of a hundred. Their first [illegible] the desert valley of Salt Lake on Sept. 26, 1847 when the creaking [illegible] pulled by the tired oxen came through Emigration Canyon. The years before

Their home in the valley for over a year and a half was the "dugout". This was a miserable shelter, but yet a home, and they were thankful for even this rude shelter. Grandfather shared with his parents all the hardships and privations of pioneer life. In the summer of 1848 he saw the destruction of the crickets and then witnessed the miracle when deliverance came. He grew in an environment which called for sacrifice and a willingness for service. The hardships he endured in his early life laid a foundation for strength of character and manhood.

As a boy he was thoughtful and naturally willing to perform his share of the work on the farm. His father now had to learn a new occupation- that of farming. There was a great deal to be done and as grandfather enjoyed farm life the many tasks assigned to him did not seem irksome. He helped dig ditches, plow, sow, and reap. As he grew older he worked building roads and getting out timber. For several years during high water time he worked in City Creek Canyon to keep the water from flooding his father's and neighbor's homes. He did his part in making Salt Lake Valley a beautiful place by assisting in the planting of shade trees. The large trees that now grow around the West High School in Salt Lake City were plant by Elnathan Eldredge, assisted by his son, Fredrick.

Grandfather was unusually healthy and strong. Probably being out-of-doors a great deal of the time had helped him build a strong body. At an early age he was able to do work that required strength and endurance. His father and brothers used to call him "Heavy" because of his sturdy build and wonderful energy.

His school days were necessarily brief. It was difficult to obtain qualified teachers or the necessary equipment; therefore, he received little from attending the pioneer school. His mother, who had had a fine education in the east, instructed her children at home.

He was always a student of mother nature, and through his great power of observation he acquired a real store of knowledge. He spent most of his time out-of-doors and nature always appealed to him. He learned the names of the native birds, flowers, trees and animals. While herding cattle, cutting down timber in the mountains and other work, he recieved information not to be found in books. Nature seemed to commune with him and impart her story and secrets. Although often alone when ranging the hills near his home he was never lonely.

[illegible] cruel to animals and [illegible] animals on his farm were always well cared for.

He possessed a jovial disposition and he was considered a good natured fellow. Always ready to cheer in some fun providing it was the [illegible] his friendship was valued. He enjoyed a good practical joke and he could chuckle for days over some harmless prank played by himself or his companions.

On Jan. 4, 1869 he married Almira Jane Nebeker, a daughter of John Nebeker and Lurena Fitzgerald. The Eldredge and Nebeker families were both friends and they had crossed the plains together in the same company. They were neighbors in Salt Lake. Almira Jane was born three years after her parents arrived in the valley on 9 March 1850.

After their marriage Grandfather and Grandmother resided in Salt Lake City. It was here that my father, Frederick Elnathan, was born Sept. 18, 1869. In 1870 they moved to Laketown on the shores of Bear Lake, Utah. Grandfather was one of the pioneer farmers in this location, and he assisted greatly in building this community. He won a great reputation for his honesty and industry. He was active and also held many positions of trust and honor.

They lived in Laketown twelve years. During this time five children were born to them, namely: Minnie B. Mar 16, 1871; Delbert b. Oct. 19, 1871; Ashton N. b. Feb. 17, 1874; William N. b. Oct. 10, 1875; and Cecelia b. May 1, 1878.

In the fall of 1882 the parents deemed it advisable to return to Salt Lake Valley. They left Laketown and journeyed by wagon team to their destination. They purchased land in Granger in Salt Lake County and engaged in farming. For a few years the family resided in Salt Lake City, and grandfather and the boys went back and forth to the farm which was located about 48th West and 4[illegible] South. When he had erected a small frame house, the family moved to Granger to make their home.

Grandfather wanted to make a real home for his family. Weeping willows, flowering locusts, flowers, and a lawn around the house gave [illegible] to their surroundings. He planted an orchard just east and south of the house and had fruit trees of every kind- apple, peach, plum, pear, and cherry. He had a fine vegetable garden and raised especially good melons. He produced [illegible] Valley, Laura Lurena b. Jan. 26, 1885; Elias Amabel b. [illegible] and Lewis Almira b. Feb. 11, 1891.

Grandfather Eldredge was respected by the people of the community. People could depend on his word and put their faith in him. For several years he was assistant supt. in the Granger Ward Sunday School to Henry L. Taylor. He served faithfully in this capacity as he was a devoted Latter-day Saint.

For several years he served as deputy county assessor under George G. Hardy. He was a Road Supervisor for about 8 years. When women were given the vote, he was registor, and he made a canvas of the Granger district to register the new voters. He also served for over ten years as a school board trustee, and in this position he worked diligently to further the cause of education. He was public spirited and willingly gave of his time and money for the growth of the community.

On Sept. 19, 1899 the Eldredge home was completely destroyed by fire. While the family was away, the fire started through some unknown origin and the flames had made great headway before some neighbors discovered it. They saved some of the furniture and household belongings, but the home was burned to the ground. As they did not have the resources to build another home at the time, they made a temporary home at Alexander Burt's place which was one half mile east of their farm. Later they lived in a house a half mile south of the Granger Ward Chapel. Then unable to obtain a suitable home they moved to Salt Lake City on 5th North and 3rd West.

Grandfather went back and forth from Salt Lake City to his farm in Granger to attend to his work. He would often drive his team and wagon to Granger on Monday morning and remain until Saturday afternoon. During the week he made his home with my father or his daughter, Minnie (Mrs. David H. Lambert).

The grandchildren looked forward to his visits with great pleasure because he was never too tired to play with them or tell them stories. He loved children and enjoyed the companionship of the little ones. How they enjoyed his jokes and stories in the evening.

I remember how we would eagerly await his arrival in the late afternoon. When we recognized the team coming up the hill, we would run down the road to meet him. We had great faith in this man - we knew he always had a smile of happy welcome. He would stop the team and lift us on the wagon. Sometimes he had a bouquet of wild flowers for us that he had gathered. He especially liked the Evening Primrose, and he would laugh to see our noses covered with Frederick Eldredge had an unquestioned reputation for honesty dealing with his fellows. People knew that they could trust him as he was never known to break his promise. When selling hay he would close a verbal agreement with a customer to supply him with hay for a certain sum. Although the price of hay would sometimes be doubled later, he would sell it for the amount agreed upon even though he lost a great deal in the transaction.

He was a benevolent man and he performed many acts of kindness and charity. No one, not even his family, knew of his kind deeds in assisting people in poor and unfortunate circumstances. Many a widow had a sack of potatoes or flour, a bushel of apples or of wheat left at her door by him. Later after his death, people would often relate stories to members of the family of how he had been kind and generous to them when they were in need. He was never rich in worldly goods but he always had some to share with his neighbors.

In about 1899 he had a painful accident while staking a cow. He was tying two ropes together with a sailors knot when the cow suddenly became frightened by a dog and jerked the rope catching the loop of it on the thumb of grandfather's left hand. His thumb was pulled from the hand, and the sinew was pulled loose from the elbow of his arm. He suffered from the effects of this accident the rest of his life.

He had another serious accident in Nov. 1907 with a pitchfork while he was loading some hay on his farm in Granger. He recovered sufficiently to attend to his work on the farm, but he was never entirely well again. Nearly two years later he suffered a paralytic stroke and died about a month later, July 23, 1909 at the home of his daughter Minnie in Granger. He was buried in the Taylorsville Cemetary near Granger, according to his wish to have his remains rest near the land he had helped pioneer. In the settling of his affairs it was found that he never owed a person, not even a five cent piece.

Frederick Eldredge was a quiet unassuming man, beloved by all who knew him. Descending from hardy pioneer stock he inherited tendencies which produced fortitude and courage. He had a spirit of industry and a determination to do worthwhile things. He had a faith and a firm resolve to accomplish his work. He built irrigation systems and reclaimed desert soil. He cleared waste lands and literally made this land "blosson as the rose". Most of his work was humble labor- he was a "tiller of the soil". He gloried in this work as it was a joy to him. He was a man who lived in accordance with high ideals of life -- a true and faithful Latter-day Saint.

JOSHUA ELDREDGE

HISTORY

Joshua Eldredge, the fourth son of Elnathan and Ruth Baker Eldredge was born in what was called the Old Fort in Salt Lake Valley, the 11th of July, 1848. This was ten months after his parents and three brothers arrived here on Sept. 26, 1847.

At this time the Old Fort was probably the home of 2,000 persons. The Eldredge family occupied one room, the second one west of the South Gate in the Old Fort. It was an ordinary sized room 14 x 18 feet with a dirt floor. The walls were made out of anything that would make a wall - mud and rocks. The roof was made by putting poles across and then piling brush, grass and stuff they could gather. Then dirt was piled on top of this. When it rained hard the water ran through carrying the mud with it. When it stopped raining they would go outside to dry.

When Joshua was born in the summer of 1848 it was raining. Elnathan Eldredge held an umbrella over the mother's head to help keep her dry. This was very different circumstances than the birth of her three children in the east. But the mother was a faithful Latter-Day Saint and she didn't complain. She was blessed and she was healthy and well.

In the fall of 1848 the Eldredge family moved out of the Old Fort to a home they had built on 4th West and 1st North. Elnathan had a farm a few miles south of the town which his boys helped him to care for. Elnathan was deeply religious and always blessed the seed and the land just before planting. All present would kneel with him and in simple words he would ask a blessing to follow.

The pioneers were hard workers but they had their good times. On the 24th of July 1857 they went up Big Cottonwood Canyon to celebrate the tenth anniversary of their arrival in the valley of Salt Lake. Nearly 3,000 Mormons were in the canyon for this event. Elnathan Eldredge, his wife, three boys and a little three-year old girl were there. About noon some horsemen rode in the encampment and privately informed Brigham Young that a detachment of U.S. Soldiers under the command of Colonel Johnston was on its way to Utah. The pioneers were unaware of the difficulty and enjoyed the day.

Brigham Young immediately thought of what could be done to hinder the progress of the army. That year they stampeded the cattle of the army and bothered them. They burned their hay and other supplies - but shed no blood. During the winter public buildings and homes were filled with straw ready to be set ablaze at a given signal. They were determined to defend themselves. They were leaving nothing for their enemies. As the army neared the city about 30,000 people deserted their homes and went south. Two men from each of the 19 wards were assigned to burn the houses, if necessary. Elnathan Eldredge and Mr. Cumberland were assigned from the 16th ward.

Joshua, a dependable lad of 10 at the time, and his friend Dan Wilsonholme were assigned to herd the riding horses just north of where the Fair ground are now. Joshua ofter related the story to his nephew Frederick E. Eldredge, of how excited he was when he saw the army come out of Emigration Canyon - 1000 men, 300 wagons and many mules. Joshua and Dan were venturesome boys and they walked up to the Old White Bridge over the Jordan River near the Fair Grounds to see the sight. Joshua said that on June 29, 1859 he saw the army under Colonel Johnson walk over the bridge. He said very few people actually saw them pass through the city. It was quite a sight with the big supply wagons - 3 or 4 feet deep pulled by two teams of mules. The army, finding the city deserted, marched on to Camp Floyd, about 30 miles south. On June 30th the people started to come back to their homes in the valley.

Joshua moved to Meadowville, Rich , Utah in 1872 at the age of 24. His brother Elnathan Eldredge Jr. and Moroni Pratt received the 1st mail contract from the U.S. Government for a mail route from Randolph to St. Charles, Idaho. The contract called for mail delivery twice weekly. Joshua was the 1st mail carrier using this route for his brother Elnathan. He told his daughter Grace, that there was a clause in the contract that if a heavy drifting snow storm was in progress, he was not to leave Laketown to go over the mountain to Randolph after four o'clock p.m.

Joshua Eldredge met Lizzie Winder when she was visiting with her sister Mrs. Newell Kimball a resident of Meadowville. Lizzie, christened Elizabeth Walters Winder was born 2 July 1856 in Salt Lake City, Utah, the daughter of John Rex Winder and Ellen Walters. She married Joshua Eldredge 5 Oct. 1874 in the Endowment House in Salt Lake City, Utah. They lived in Meadowville where they played an important part in its history.

They invited boys and girls into their home as Primary and Sunday School groups. Seats were provided by placing boards between chairs; on the upper rungs for some and on the lower rungs for others. Their daughter Grace was told about this experience by the children who attended. They said Joshua and Lizzie were a wonderful influence for good in their hearts and lives.

Six children were born to this couple, but only three lived to maturity: Adelaide (Mrs. Rufus K. Hardy), Grace (Mrs. Richard Weston) and Walter Joshua Eldredge. Lizzie Winder died 16 Nov. 1884 at Meadowville after the birth of a son Hyrum that same day.

Joshua married (2) 27 Oct. 1886 at Logan, Cache, Utah, Susannah Hodges, daughter of William Hodges and Elizabeth Sweetman. She was born 10 Oct. 1857 in Bristol, Sommerset, England. They had one son born 26 Sep. 1887 at Meadowville, Rich, Utah, and died 14 Oct. 1887 much to their disappointment, because they both loved children.

Joshua had bought a ranch where he did farming; also raising, buying and selling cattle. In this venture he was very successful.

In 1891 Joshua and Susannah traveled with team and wagon to Salt Lake to attend April General Conference. While there they visited with Susannah's sister Lucy Webb, wife of George Henry Webb. Susannah asked if she might take her 11 month old child Mary home with her. Lucy was expecting another baby and was not very well. She and George agreed to let the baby go if they would bring her back at the Fall General Conference. They took her back, but begged to keep her for the Winter and so Mary stayed with them until she married, as they kept begging to keep her.

Mary loved the children Grace and Walter. She said, "I can remember them taking me coasting and putting me in an old dish pan that Mother Eldredge gave them, and how they would say, now hang tight so you won't fall out and I would go round and round while going down the hill in the pan."

Joshua was a faithful member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. In 1893 he was called to be a counselor in the Bishopric. He served under two Bishops. He held other positions in the community - a trustee on the school board.

In 1899 Joshua was called on a mission to Nebraska. He moved his wife to Randolph. His children, Walter and Grace, with the help of a foster son, Archie Webb, ran the ranch. Grace taught school in Meadowville. She had 42 students in one room, all grades included.

When Joshua returned from his 2 year mission, he sold his ranch and bought a store from John Shelby in RAndolph, in 1902. He carried almost everything, all kinds of yardage, shoes, groceries, and hardware. Mary tells it was her job to straighten the shelves and clean the windows. One day when she was there a young man came in and wanted to buy a celluloid collar. Father Eldredge had a hard time wrapping it up and that young man giggled and laughed at him. It made Mary very mad at him to think he was laughing at Joshua. Finally he said, "You don't know me do you?" Joshua said "No, I don't." "Well you are my Uncle Josh, and I'm Jodie Eldredge from Ogden, Utah." Of course, it was a happy reunion. His wife and some of his children were out in the car. He and Father went to the house to see Mother Eldredge and they stayed overnight.

Mary described Joshua as the kindest, most thoughtful person I have ever known: very honest and truthful in all his dealings with human kind. She lived with him for 24 years until she married Ernest Archibald McKinnon.

About 1915 he sold the store and bought cattle. It was a very hard winter and feeding those cattle hay was like feeding gold for the hay cost so much.

Susannah Hodges Eldredge and Joshua raised six foster children in their home at RAndolph and there was great love shown for these children.

Susannah died 26 Oct. 1926 at RAndolph of cancer. Joshua sold his property and moved to Salt Lake City, Utah. He was 78 years old. He stayed with his children (Walter and Addie Hardy in the winter and back to Randolph with Grace Weston and Mary McKinnon in the Spring). He would say "I am like the birds, flew south in the winter and came home to Randolph in the spring."

Joshua Eldredge was a quiet unassuming man, pleasant and agreeable to associate with. He had a keen sense of humor and he enjoyed a good joke. He was a man of high moral principles, honest and fair in his dealings. He was loved by his family and friends and respected by all who knew him. He died 1 June 1939 lacking one month of being 90 years old. He was buried 3 June 1939 in Randolph, Rich, Utah.

CYNTHIA ANN ELDREDGE

MEMORIES OF CYNTHIA ANN ELDREDGE SPENCE

by her eldest grandchild

Alice Young Spence Counter

As the first grandchild in the W.C. Spence family, I suppose I had the closest association of any of the grandchildren with my Grandmother. My earliest memories of Grandmother were of my staying in her home when I was two years old, while my mother and father went to Southern California for his health. Grandmother was most permissive - letting me tie her blue and white check apron on with the bow in front and the full skirt billowing out behind as a cape. She gave me oranges to eat, a great treat, telling me that my parents were in the land where these marvelous things came from - a magic, sunny, warm land where my daddy would get well .

Later on when my parents returned, my sister and I, our parents and Grandmother journeyed to St. George, Utah, by train, again for my father's health, Grandmother explained to me, as I was astonished by seeing my first black person, a porter, that I must always be very polite to black people, never forget to say "Thank you" for a service rendered. She admonished me always to be a little lady, and never forget that I was "A Baker, of Beacon Hill, in Boston." For years, I thought Grandmother meant a baker by profession, not name.

Grandmother was tall, slender, with a low voice and quite regal carriage. She was never idle - always waiting on each and every member of her family; if sitting in the library (a warm room, book-lined, with fireplace, oriental rug, leather furniture, ormulu clock striking the hours, a restful room) and dressed in black silk as was her custom, she would have on the inevitable blue and white checked gingham apron, busy shelling peas, stringing beans, cracking walnuts, talking, talking all the while as she was a most interesting and vivacious conversationalist. People seemed to seek her out for advice in all family matters and when I spent a year in her home from my ninth to tenth years, I was fascinated by her knowledge of books, of family, of history, and politics. She could more than hold her own in a political debate with her sons-in-law, and they greatly respected her intelligence and awareness. A very generous and giving sort of woman, she also had a great sense of the dramatic which made her a fascinating storyteller. People used to say that she was a "good talker and a good listener."

Grandmother was quite technical and exacting of me - especially in words and vocabulary - I remember referring to one delicious dessert as ice cream and she corrected me by saying, "It is not ice cream, but frozen vanilla pudding." She was a wonderful cook, famous for her Parker house rolls and fudge among other dishes. She set an elaborate table, and altho she had household help it was my task every Saturday night to assist her in polishing the silver which I loved to do. She was lavish with praise for all tasks well done, and encouraged me in writing and drawing. She had deep sorrows losing daughter, Geneve, in early teens and her son, Leslie, at age 28 - but was a gallant woman and kept her sorrow to herself.

She never turned away a beggar from her door - fed him a hot meal and sent him on his way. Her children could always bring their friends to the home and the dinner hour was a happy one with guests included.

She was an excellent speller and could give the meaning of almost any word. Grandmother had a marvelous sense of humor, was a superb bridge player and had an elegance about her.

CHAPTER EIGHT

LORING ELDREDGE

HISTORY

Loring Eldredge was born 20 Aug. 1857 at Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah, To Elnathan and Ann Maria Peck Eldredge. He was their first born child, but he had four half brothers and a half sister who enjoyed his arrival.

The family lived in the Sixteenth Ward area of Salt Lake City, Utah. Here two brothers, George Albert and Harrison, and two sisters, Margaret Jane and Annie Louise, were born.

In the spring of 1871 the family moved to Meadowville, Rich, Utah. They had decided to homestead a piece of property. Loring was 14 years old at this time, but he was a good working, dependable boy. He helped his father clean the land and prepare the soil for planting the crops. He went ahead doing the many assigned tasks as they planted enough crops for their needs.

In the fall of that year, 31 Oct. 1871, his father Elnathan Eldredge died and so the responsibility of taking care of the homestead and providing the necessities for the family fell on his shoulders. His sister, Edith Viola was born in the spring, 15 Mar. 1872, so he was a great help to his mother.

On the 18 Oct. 1873, the family of David Kay Moffat moved to Meadowville, from the Third ward in Salt Lake City, Utah. David, his wife Janet Leishman, and family had joined the church in June 1844 in Scotland. They and six children emigrated to America in 1853 and settled in Pennsylvania, where he worked in the coal mines. Two more children were born there, and the baby, Mary Jane, born 9 Sep. 1859 in Pottsville, Schuylkill, Pennsylvania, was carried by her mother acrossed the plains as they journeyed to Utah in 1860, in the Daniel Robinson handcart company.

Loring Eldredge became acquainted with Mary Jane Moffat at the store her father owned in Meadowville. He was a good looking young man and she was an attractive girl, so with just two years difference in their age they liked each other at first sight. They attended the weekly socials and church meetings together and their friendship grew. They were married 3 June 1883 at Meadowville, Rich, Utah.

Loring was ordained an Elder 11 July 1876 in the Church of Jesus Christ of latter-day Saints by William Hymes and was active in doing his part to help the church grow.

Loring and Mary Jane lived and raised their family in the same area they grew up as young people. They had one son and four daughters bless their home. The oldest son, Loring Roland was born 29 Sep. 1883. He grew to maturity, but never married. He died 13 Dec. 1912 in Spokane, Spokane, Wash. Like his father he helped look after and cared for his mother's needs. Hazel Kay Moffat Eldredge was born 24 Jan. 1885; Marion Moffat Eldredge was born 26 Jan. 1887 and Sybil Lorene Eldredge was born 3 Oct. 1888.

Loring was not able to enjoy his family very long. He left them by death 28 Feb. 1889 in Meadowville, Rich, Utah. He was 31 years old, but he had lived a full and happy life. He enjoyed his family and farm in the lovely valley of Bear Lake where he had lived most of his life and served his fellowmen.

His family moved to Logan, Utah where they lived for a while. Then they left Utah and settled in LaGrande, Oregon, later moving to Spokane, Washington. Mary worked to support her family after her husband died. She died 2 Feb. 1940 in Spokane, Spokane, Washington.

GEORGE ALBERT ELDRE[illegible]E

HISTORY

George Albert Eldredge was born 4 June 1860 in Salt Lake City, Utah [illegible] son of Elnathan Eldredge and Ann Maria Peck. He died 24 Sept 1959.

When Dad was a mere boy, President Brigham Young asked Grandfather to go with his family to Meadowville, Utah, in the Bear Lake region, to settle and help form a community there. Grandfather died in 1871, and shortly after [illegible] Grandma and the children returned to Salt Lake City again.

Dad's first job was driving a team to deliver coal. Each load had to be carried by the use of a wheelbarrow as the coal sheds were situated in the rear end of the yard.

Dad took room and board at the William Barton residence where he met [illegible] Barton and later they were married in June 1893. Five children were born from this union. Ernest, Arthur, Ruth, Elmer and Raymond. When Ruth the daughter passed away, she left a son Richard just two years old and Dad and Mother reared Richard.

Dad obtained a job with the Utah Railway Company driving the mule [illegible] He often mentioned that the mules knew the time of leaving for the return trip to town. The stables where the mules were cared for during the night were on 2nd east between south temple and first south. There were rails down 2nd and [illegible] south to main street, but the last trip down 2nd south, the mules pulled the car from the rails at 2nd east and would go directly to the stables.

The electric cars were introduced in Salt Lake City and Dad had the honor of being the first man to operate one.

Dad was the instructor for the new men being hired to learn how to operate the electric car. He had to approve of every man that was hired and he had this responsibility until retirement in 1926.

After his retirement from the Utah Railway Co., he worked at the State Capital operating the elevators.

At one time while working for the Railway co., Dad was sent to Spokane Washington to study and investigate the feasibility of the one man operator for the street cars. Upon his recommendation along with the suggestion that they put glass the full length of the door so the operator would have better vision [illegible] starting up, both of these were put in effect.

One time during the fall, when the leaves were blown all over and the rails were very slippery and wet, Dad heard someone screaming and as he came nearer the sound he looked ahead and saw a boy on the rails. Dad set the brakes and jumped from the car running to the boy. The child's foot was caught in the groove of the rail and Dad cut the boy's shoe lace pulling him free just as the car slipped on the rails and came on, running over the boy's shoe, but the boy was safe.

I have often heard it said, Dad would give the shirt off his back to help anyone in need if it were warranted.

Dad was religious man and always took time to live his religion to the best of his knowledge.

Dad left a wonderful heritage for his family to follow.

After living for a while in Meadowville, they moved to Idaho. Wherever they lived they were active and enjoyed their church [illegible].

I remember she was a very neat looking woman, about 5'5" in height and weighed 130 lbs. She had dark grey eyes and beautiful dark [illegible] hair. I liked to go with my father, Frederick Elnathan, to her house."

ANNIE LOUISE ELDREDGE

[illegible] Annie Louise [illegible] 18[illegible], the second daughter of [illegible] Eldredge [illegible] [illegible] older sister, [illegible] her older brothers, [illegible] happy to have a new sister.

The summer after Annie was born a meeting was held [illegible] [illegible] families were chosen to [illegible] the settlement in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] these people [illegible]. They traveled [illegible] and as they entered the valley, they could see [illegible] Creek [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of meadow [illegible] wild and watered from the [illegible] [illegible] formed the west range of mountains. The valley extended from [illegible] north to [illegible], about [illegible] and one half miles and from Lake [illegible] to the east [illegible] about [illegible] one half miles wide. They [illegible] the [illegible].

In the west mountains there was plenty of wood for fuel, trees [illegible] lumber to build homes, poles and posts for fences, etc.

[illegible] Eldredge built a nice two bedroom home for his family, with the help of his [illegible] as they all worked together to help each other. The family moved in the spring of 1871 to the valley. Annie had just [illegible] years old in Feb. so she enjoyed the trip and life in her new [illegible]. She enjoyed playing with her father in the evenings. That fall when her father left for Salt Lake City, she didn't know she would not see him again. He caught pneumonia and died the 31st of October 1871.

[illegible] was a very [illegible] and industrious woman. [illegible] raised her family in this beautiful valley. She was chosen as the President of the Relief Society, so her little ones went along to the church meetings [illegible]. To their sorrow, during the month of May the children took ill with diphtheria; Jonathan and Lester died 31 May 1893 and Olive the next day 1 1893. With careful nursing the little twin girl, Maebell, survived the illness and helped relieve the heartache of the loss her parents felt in their ho

May 6, 1896 another girl was born to this couple. They called her Genevieve. Then 4 May 1898 Vernon Dewey was born, but he died a few days later.

After the people had been in Meadowville and endured the hardships and trials of pioneering, they still had problems. They had built homes, a church and a school building, canals and roads; but they realized they had made a great mistake. The town had been built on low ground and had become soggy The people worked together to move the homes to higher ground; but by 1898 many people, including Jonathan and Annie, had left the community and moved to Cache county or some other place.

Her daughter Ruby said, " She was one of those mothers, that never tired of doing for her family and friends. I will never forget all the good times we had together. She raised two of her sister Annie's children (Mabel and Genevieve). I knew my Mother was to love her. I loved her very much and think of her so often."
